guest of honor. On the occasion, Mr. Naidu advised the students to develop into managerial leaders who can foresee the future trends and shape the world in the best possible way.

The Vice President advised the students to not be content with merely 'managing' well but must learn to lead. He further said that institutes like IIM Rohtak produce Business Managers, Leaders who have the wisdom and courage to reform the institutions, business corporations and government. With this enabling policy framework, I am sure the IIMs will strive to innovate and grow even further, he added.

The Vice President said that institutes like, IIM Rohtak should work with businesses and policy makers to provide excellent education and promote research for the benefit of the society. He further said that students must adapt to new situations in the corporate world as they evolve and emerge. The world of learning and the world of work are changing very rapidly and you need to be ever alert, ever agile, he added.

Remembering Mahatma Gandhiji, the Vice President asked students to shun: "Knowledge without character, commerce without morality, science without humanity." Your actions in private and public life must be guided by a moral and ethical compass, he added.

Other dignitaries who graced the occasion were Education Minister of Haryana, Ram Bilas Sharma, Finance Minister of Haryana Capt. Abhimanyu Singh, and Manish Grover, Minister of Haryana for Co- operation, printing and urban bodies.
